ALTRINCHAM

LONDON (Reuters)—Lord Altrincham said today he thinks Princess Margaret and her husband, former society photographer Antony Armstrong-Jones, should "abdicate" as members of the Royal Family.

($42,000) a year of taxpayers' money which is being paid to them," he wrote in his column in The Guardian.

Altrincham, a Conservative known for his criticism of the royal court, was discussing the abdication 25 years ago this month of the Duke of Windsor, then King Edward VIII.

"King Edward VIII took a sensible decision which is open to lesser members of the Royal Family who have no enthusiasm for public work," Altrincham wrote.
"Lord and Lady Snowdon (Armstrong-Jones and Margaret) are the most obvious candidates for 'abdication' in the British Royal Family today.

"Unlike 'Uncle David' (the Duke of Windsor)

they are being allowed to have it both ways."

No Trace of Four In Island Tragedy

Fishboat Goes Down

A search which started Wednesday night was still under way at noon today for a 54-foot herring dragger with four men aboard, missing and believed sunk in heavy seas near Maude Island, at the mouth of Nanoose Bay, 15 miles north of Nanaimo.

The RCAF search and res cue centre reported a "May-day" distress signal had been made Wednesday at about 8.30 p.m., that the Vancouver-based Cape Norman was sinking onequarter mile from Maude

Weather at the time of the tragedy was reported as bad, with severe winds and high seas making any kind of search difficult. It has improved to-day, and Georgia Strait was reported as "reasonably calm."

PLANES SEARCH

An RCAF spokesman said an air force Albatross and an Otter, both from Sea Island, were searching by air and that the celling was 1,000 feet and visibility "fairly good."

"But the wind is getting stronger," he said.

One report reached air-sea rescue headquarters that the vessel sank by the stern. It said a search vessel reported that the last message received from Capt. Tom Wilson of White Rock was "The dinghy

THAT DAY'S LESSONS RECORDED IN BLOOD

PEARL HARBOR (AP)-"In this missile and thermonuclear age, it would be foolhardy indeed to assume that surprise attack will never be a possibility." This warning was delivered today by Admiral John H. Sides, commander of the U.S. Pacific fleet, at ceremonies marking the 20th anniversary of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

on Pearl Harbor.

Ceremonies were held on a platform above the waters along non-restored "battleship row." Activity throughout the naval base halted momentarily in memory of that black Sunday — Dec. 7, 1941.

The ceremony was timed to coincide with the exact moment — 7.55 a.m. — when the first Japanese planes swooped low over the battleships lining the northeast shores of Hawaii's Ford Island. Below the memorial platform for the U.S. Arizona, centre of today's ceren was the rusting hulk of the warship and the remains of 1,102 men who went down with her. The Arizona and her crew are symbols of those hours when war came to the United States.

South of the Arizona the old battleship row was vacant. But between the flag flying above the Arizona and one beside Ford Island's administration building—less than a mile away—nearly 2,000 men died on a Sunday morning.

"The lessons learned that day are recorded in blood," Sides said.

Taking part in the memorial tribute were military leaders, congressmen, and representatives of veterans' organizations, including 108 Pearl Harbor survivors. A group of 60 mothers, many of whose sons died on the Arizona, also was on hand.

TORONTO - Those rapturous audience stampedes at end of each of Judy Garland's current concerts may not be so spontaneous.

Newspaper research here, where Miss Garland has been playing this week, indicates the spontaneity may be getting assists both from Miss Garland and from within-the audience itself. The Telegram enlisted a psychiatrist to figure things out. Both it and The Star discovered a self-starter among Judy's fans.

Focus of the research was the closing rush to the footlights that has become a Garland trademark lately. It has been wild enough at Toronto's new cultural emporium — the O'Keefe Centre — to catch eight-column front page headlines in the evening papers.

The Telegram's psychiatrist — anonymous because of medical ethics — found the mob's rush "as predictable as the frog in Miss Garland's throat." which he noted vibrates

TORONTO A pastureland romance between four helfers and a group of steers got into the courts Wednesday for the second time.

This time the Ontario Court of Appeal quashed a decision by Brant County Judge R. W. Reville which awarded $1,975 damages to Paris farmer James B. Greenfield. Defendants were two other farmers, Harold B. Buchanan and Earl Scott.

Mr. Greenfield said his four prize heifers became gnant while on Mr. Buchanan's pasture lands. The culprit or culprits, he claimed, were an animal or animals owned by Mr. Scott.

Mr. Scott argued before Judge Reville that his steers

Times Ottawa Correspondent
OTTAWA—Plans for a determined attack on juvenile delinquency on a national scale will be announced shortly by Justice Minister Fulton.

This would be followed up with a detailed study on the operations of organized crime in Canada and ways and means of combatting these activities.

A special committee within the justice department will make preliminary studies of the juvenile deliquency problem with the view to drafting proposals that could lead to action against the problem on the Dominion-provincial level, it is understood.

Two courses of action appear open to the justice minister. He might organize a federal provincial conference of attorneys general with the objective of improving laws governing juvenile delinquency. An alternative would be the launching of a commission in quiry into the problem as it has developed in the provinces.

Canada's Constitution

MR. FULTON SEEMS TO BE our constitution if it is to be M making some progress in his attempt to move the Canadian constitution out of Westminster and into Ottawa. A formula of constitution tutional amendment by Canadians has been devised after a generation of failure. Now Mr. Fulton hopes the provinces will accept it.

This problem is not as exciting as Mr. Fulton's row with Mr. Bennett, or many other current disputes, but it is vitally important just the same and will outlast most of our temporary political issues. For the question posed here is simply whether Canadians have the wisdom to manage their own affairs without the help of the British Parliament.

The constitution of 1867, the British North America Act, was necessarily a statute of Britain. The British Parliament transformed the four colonies of Upper and Lower Canada, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia into a federal union which was not yet a nation but no longer a colony. Any amendment of the con-stitution (later accepted by the reminder of the present provinces) was made by the British Parliament from time to time. The British North America Act resided and still resides partially in Westminster.

In the early days of Confederation the British Parliament amended the constitution at the request of the Canadian Parliament and still does, without question. But the provinces, growing in power and independence, began to insist that they must be consulted about any amendments affecting them. Some provinces like Quebec even argued that Confederation itself was a "compact," its terms unalterable in any detail unless all the original signatories approved.

Federal governments agreed that it could not be altered, insofar as it touched the undoubted jurisdiction of the provinces, without their consent in one form or another. It was intolerable to federal governments, however, that the Canadian Parliament could not change constitution insofar as it touched only federal jurisdiction.

The government of Prime Min-ister St. Laurent finally grasped the nettle and by an amendment to the Canada the power of constitutional British Parliament must still amend amended at all.

Resuming the task which had frustrated his predecessors, Mr. Fulton undertook to devise a formula by which the provinces would agree on amendments by the Canadian Parliament apart from federal matters. That formula was pub-lished a few days ago. It closely resembles the formula proposed by the late Ernest Lapointe, probably FROM WASHINGTON

First, matters of federal juris-diction will remain under the con-trol of Parliament which, in that

Second, all the provinces must agree to any amendment affecting their jurisdiction over education and the official use of the English or French languages. (Most provinces would never turn education over to Parliament, and Quebec, of course, would never surrender its language.

state nevertheless. In size, resources, and military power it is a bigger state than a large number of the members than a large number of the of the United Nations.

The undeniable and reality in the Chinese question today is that as the result of the war and revolution there are these two Chinese states. There are other divided states in the world—West and East Germany, North and South Korea, North and South Vietnam. For the United Nations the only important difference between divided Germany, divided Korea, divided Vietnam, on the one hand, and divided China, on the other, is that China before it was divided became a founding member of the United Nations.

As regards the other divided nations, the United Nations have always taken the position that unless they are reunited or are agreed peaceably to remain arated, they cannot come into the United Nations. There is no German, no Korean, no Vietnamese seat, but there is a Chinese seat, and what to do with it is a most difficult problem.

This problem cannot be settled by a vote which chooses one China or the other. Last week, Mr. Zorin, the Soviet delegate, showed with brutal candor what it would mean if the UN ousted the Nationalist government and seated the Red Chinese government in its Red China, he said, would then have "the right to liquidate the clique of Chiang Kal-shek both by peaceful means and through the use of force." Thus

But as the United States is committed to the defence of Taiwan, the UN would be licensing a Chinese-American conflict. That is not good enough for a world organization devoted to the main tenance of peace.

In general, the common external tariff of the Six embodies a moderate degree of protectionism on manu-factured goods that seems to be slightly higher on the whole than that of the United States. It represents an average of the relatively high duties on imports of manufactures previously imposed by France and Italy, the more moderate rates of Germany, and the very low rates of the Benelux countries.

It is not yet certain how Britain's high tariff structure and the lower duties of Denmark and Norway would be assimilated into a new Common Market structure, but not much change in average level of protection on manufactured goods is to be expected.

Exactly how many colored children are at present boarded out is anyone's guess (official figures in Kent alone are 400 in the past two years).

Regular Calls

Under the Children's Act 1958, a foster-mother is required to notify the local authority of the acceptance of a child for which she is receiving payment -after which welfare officers will make regular calls. But it is certain that some, merely out for easy money, are failing to register.

Mr. Nehru finds himself up against the world's third giant, which is rousing itself to compete in global matters with the other two, Russia and the United States. India's normal relations with Peking have been good; they have been marked by the usual visits of dignitaries, joint communiques expressing mu-tual admiration and all the diplomatic accessories to peaceful coexistence.

But early last year that co-existence was marred by a squab-

IN PARRY SOUND, ONTARIO, little Joey Lamb has been declared the properly adopted son of parents with whom he lives His relationship and the adoprious unidentified U.S. power interests. For example, in his wrangle with Bennett over the question of selling surplus power in the States, Fulton has figuratively wrap-ped himself in the Red Ensign. Surely some cartoonist will come up with Fulton as a sort of Canadian John Bull or Uncle Sam.

Or, as the justice minister is the political head of the RCMP, he could be caricatured as a Mountie nabbing a shifty-looking Bennett just as the latter is about to slip across the border with a bundle of swag marked "made-in-Canada kilowatts."

Then, too, he could be a B.C. logger swing Ing an axe to lop off the arms of U.S. Power Octopus reaching into Canada. Or he could be a B.C. trapper sitting puffing his pipe he fore a log cabin to which are nailed a couple of bear hides. The just skinned one is Secre-tary Udall. And you remember the other one: crime comics.

But before we go about pedestalling
Fulton as boy with finger in dike, maybe we should ask some questions. For example, whose power is it anyway? Ottawa's? Well, no, not really. When it is generated

It will belong to the people of the province of British Columbia, whose chosen political leader is Premier Bennett

Then the generating plants must belong to Ottawa? Again, no. The power plants are on the lower Columbia River, in the United States, and most of them belong to the people of the United States. Then the water used to generate the power must belong to Ottawa? Not at all. The water of the Columbia within Canada belongs to British Columbia. When the water crosses into the States it belongs to the U.S. However, that part of it which will be im pounded behind the dams in B.C. and released as controlled flow to increase the power B.C. lien on it. That's why half of the power this water produces will belong to B.C.

* * *

Then why does Ottawa want to stop the export of this power to the U.S.? Well, as a matter of fact, it doesn't. The power can't be exported because it won't be produced in Canada. What Canada wants to do is to require Premier Bennett to import the power from the U.S. Bennett doesn't want to import the power because he says B.C. doesn't eed it. What he wants to do is sell the power in the U.S. and import U.S. dollars, but only for as long as B.C. has no use for this power. When B.C. does need it, he proposes that the sales contracts be terminated, and the power be brought into B.C.

Then why does Fulton describe this as a "sellout" by Bennett?

That is what might be described as "a good question." He doesn't agree with Bennett that B.C. can't use the power. He says it will attract industry to B.C. because it will be cheaper than any other power in B.C. He says that once this power is committed to service in the U.S., B.C. might never he able to get is back — an argument that Udall called "stuff and nonsense."

Fulton doesn't trust Bennett, he doesn't trust Udall and the U.S., and by happy co-incidence there'll be a federal election soon. Who will then be saving Canada from the rapacious Americans and the traitorous Social Crediters? Davie Fulton and the always have had the digestion of an ostrich and still have. Then, accidentally, while having an X-ray film made of the person's back, gallstones were found, and the local docwere tor is keen to operate and remove them. The owner of the stones says, "Why should I have an opera-tion when I feel so well? Those stones never bothered me. My mother and my grandmother had gallnes for at least years and they died of heart trouble. They never Alvarez had a gallstone colic. Now my doctor is trying to scare me into an operation by saying that if I don't let him operate I'll get a cancer of the gallbladder. What do you

All I can say is that when I was young. I used to worry enough about this cancer scare so that often I used to say to these people with silent stones that perhaps they had better have them out. Then, one day, I saw the statistics of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company which showed what actually had happened to several hundred men and women who had been accepted for life insurance 30 or 40 years before.

What impressed me was that their duration of life was only slightly less than that of people who were insured without known gallstones. With this evidence before me, I lost my fear of my patients' getting cancer in their stone bearing gallbladder, and I quit advising operation in the cases of silent stones. I myself have had gallstones for 30 tables of the property o ars or more and as yet they haven't

In the old days one reason why I had many people with gallstones operated on was that I feared the person might get jaundiced and have to be operated on when the bile in the blood might interfere with the bile in the blood might interfere with its clotting. Now we have Vitamin K which can control that situation, and this makes me all the more willing to leave silent gall-paper written years ago by a good friend of mine, an able stomach specialist, who, for over 25 years, kept in touch with more than 200 people with silent gallstones, and found that most of them lived out their lives without getting into any serious trouble because of their stones.

At perhaps hundreds of autopsies on older people I have seen the pathologist find gall-stones. Then we would ask the surviving children if their parent had ever suffered from the stones, and usually they would say, "No." The fact that I do not get operated on for my stones shows now I feel about this subject.

As I often say in this column, we doctors have a bad habit, but a rather necessary one, when we are terribly rushed and busy, of saying to a nervous patient, "Here's your trouble: see that dropped colon (or that kinked colon, or that crinkly, or spastic colon)." I personally could never bear to do this because more than half of the colons we see are "dropped," by which mean that when the person stands his colon floats down in the abdomen to take a position much lower than we used to think was normal-55 years ago, before we did much X-ray work. One of the lowest colons I ever saw was in a husky prize-fighter who once killed a man in the ring, by a terrible blow. He had no discomfort from his "dropped bowel."

All colons are naturally kinked; prac tically all colons have a crinkly wall on the left side, and practically all colons of nervous people are "spastic" (a bit narrow on the left side). Most colons of people past 50 have many diverticula or little pounches. This is why I never mention these features to patients. I believe they are essentially normal features and they are not producing the nervous woman's symptoms. Usually they are not producing any symptoms at all—so why talk about them? Why scare and worry the patient about them; why spend money and time treating them? I never

CANS OF FOOD FOR CARTOONS

At Christmas time cartoons and cans can go together like plum nudding and hard sauce or even nicer to think about, like Santa Claus and children.

To prove this point merchants of the 700 Block, Yates Street, will sponsor a two-hour cartoon-comedy program at the Odeon theatre starting at 10.15 Saturday morning.

For the admission price of one or more cans of food child may enjoy the shenanigans of the Three Stooges, Bugs Bunny, Daffy Duck, Casper the Friendly Ghost and others of their joyful lik while providing destitute Victoria families with a more bountiful Christmas.

It is hoped that between 1,000 and 1,500 cans of food, can be collected in this painless manner. Following the show the food will be turned over to Mrs. E. E. Harper of the Free Food Stall, to be distributed Dec. 16.

BAL HARBOUR, Fla. (AP) — A family squabble over how to settle jurisdictional disputes comed today as the AFL-CIO prepared to open its 1961 national convention. Industrial unions have insisted that they will fight for adoption of a tough dispute settlement system. The system is opposed stoutly by rival building trades.

Walter Reuther, Auto Union president and chief spokesman for the industrial unions, denied

Wednesday that there was any compromise agree-ment between the rival union groups.

AFL-CIO president George Meany was ex-pected to make a convention keynote appeal for peace in the quarrelling labor union family.

ECM PROPOSES LINK WITH AFRICA NATIONS

PARIS (Reuters)—The European Common Market will offer 16 African countries a new five-year contract of association, informed sources said Wednesday night.

The proposal was due to be put forward today on the second day of a conference here between the six Common Market countries—West Germany, France, Italy, The Netherland, Belgium and Luxembourg—and the African Netherland, Belgium and Laxendarian nations.

REDS BUCK U.S. PLAN FOR SPACE

UNITED NATIONS (AP) An American plan for East-West co-operation in space through the United Nations ran into Communist opposi-tion Wednesday in the UN political committee.

Communist delegates from Hungary, Albania, Czechoslo-vakia and the Soviet Ukraine Insisted that the UN committee on the peaceful uses of outer space abandon the procedure of acting by majority vote and act only on U.S. Saviet agreement. Soviet agreement.

"If the United States is really in favor of co-operation in outer space," said Tamas Lorinc of Hungary, "they have to realize that they can get where without the Soviet

AUDITION DATES

Children under 13 will be admitted at half price for the Monday through Friday shows. Dec, 15 at 4 p.m. and 11 p.m. is audition time.

The show requires girls trying for a part to be between 16 and 21 years, five to five foo six inches tall and with good features and figure.

Boys can go up to 23 years but must be between five foot eight and six foot two inches in height.

All applicants, the show stresses, must have "a solid family background."

Yank Loses Cambridge Debate Post

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP)—The first American in 66 years to be elected head of Cambridge University's de-bating society was disqualified

Tuesday night three hours be-fore he was to take office.

An investigating committee ruled that Barry S. Augen-braun, 23-year-old New Yorker, had violated the society's nor campaigning rule by elec-

The charge was brought by Augenbraun's opponent, Brian Pollitt, 25, an avowed Comunist. Pollitt lost the election by 24 votes.

A new vote was ordered for Thursday and Pollitt, son of the late Harry Pollitt, chair-man of the British Communist party, will run again. Augen-braun won't. Tuesday night's ruling bars him.

Augenbraun said he considered the decision against him unjustifiably hard.

Nazi Jailed For Ordering Execution

FRANKFURT (Reuters) A former Nazi police colonel was sentenced to 21 months hard labor by a West German court Wednesday for the at-tempted manslaughter of a Canadian air force lieutenant during the last weeks of the Second World War.

The court president said in the judgment that Albert Hann had ordered the illegal shooting of the Canadian, identified only as McDonald Moore, 20, who had bailed out from a bomber during an air raid or Grey Austria Masch raid on Graz, Austria, March 4, 1945. Former police officer Franz Turber told the court as a wit-ness that his-conscience for-bade him to carry out Hahn's order and that he let Moore

Play Along 'n' Please That Practical Mother By PENNY SAVER

If you're like me, you've tried very hard to pry from Mother what she would like for Christmas. After what I thought were subtle hints from several different angles on my part, I received an exasperated sigh and a statement something like this, "Just get me something practical for the house dear."

Doesn't that sound just like her? Guess I'm not practical because I like to give personal is. Something the receiver would like, but wouldn't go out and buy for herself. But Mother . . . bless her heart . .

it to be practical.

At any rate, getting down to business, I came across a few practical items that might possibly please her. You listening?

Chrome salt and pepper shakers in smart, modern design would look perfect on her new stove. Standing four inches high and three inches wide, they have snap-on tops and re-movable plastic containers inside for easy cleaning. Reasonmovable plastic containers inside for easy cleaning. Reasonably priced too, at $3.95.

You know how Mother always struggles to lift the piping-hot "bird" out of the roaster and onto a platter on Christmas Day. Well, no more..., if you give her this gadget.

A turkey rack that can be folded flat when not in use.

A turkey rack that can be folded flat when not in use. Before placing the turkey in the roaster, set rack with handles draping over edge; then, place the turkey, fold the handles over the breast and pop the works in the oven. When the bird is done, lift "him" out, rack and all and place on platfer. Pull the centre pin on the bottom and flift the rack away in two places. Does it sound confusing? Maybe so . . . on paper, but if you see the rack it will all clear up. The price? $1.98.

A lovely juice set, pitcher and six glasses, would really make Mother's gift opening time complete. Glasses are in frosted shades of lilac, orange and pale green, and the pitcher is a frosted aqua color. Lines are modern, and so is the price

Does this solve any of your problems? Hope so! Give me a call and let me know.

Make up lines once the children are grown up is dull fare, indeed.

If you're a member of this you to handle efficiently your usehold duties, give you time for study, personal grooming and congenial hours with your be particularly important, for if you haven't kept up with the latest fashions, hair styles, and make-up, you may feel at a disadvantage surrounded by people much younger than yourself. This doesn't mean you should try to dress like a teen-ager. Nothing could be more fatal to your appearance.

Cleanliness is the basis of beauty at any age. And it will not take much time out of your busy day to be scrupu-lously clean.

Another essential on your beauty program is frequent defuzzing of legs and underarms, and this, too, can be a predominant role in your ap pearance, for your hair style can date you. Keep it in clean, shining condition, and have it

South's three-diamond over-call falls into this class of silly defence. His partner had passed originally and South had no reason to believe he could defeat any spade contract at all.

Actually, West would have been able to make six spaces, but he was not going to get there. It was too much to know about the good break in hearts and the favorable position of the diamond king behind South's ace. Of course, North did not have to try four diamonds but he was a gallant defender also. West was delighted There wasn't any great slaughter. South lost two hearts and a ruff; two spades; a diamond; and a club for a total of 700 points. But EAST AND WEST STILL HAD PART SCORE

Mayoralty Candidate Don Smith to Speak on Channel 6 at 10

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

I'VE ALWAYS liked Jack Leonard since the night some months ago he turned on co-panelist Zsa Zsa Gabor, who had been needling him, with a look of button-eyed surprise. "Which one of the Gabors are you!" he asked you," he asked

"Why I'm Zsa Zsa, of course."
"Oh excuse me. I thought you were their mother."
Tuesday night NBC:TV:s Jack Paar let the man whose tongue makes the Sword of Damocles look about as dangerous as a butter knife loose on voluble, skit hilarious affair that often had middle-man Paar holding his ears and admitting weakly (whenever he could be heard in the uproar) that he had lost all control of his own show.

There was Dodie reading posters are the country of the control of the tish-eyed Bodie Goodman and the result was a most hilarious affair that often had middle-man Paar holdmen of the press while trying to insert commercials when they should be inserted and Hugh Downs look ing as though he was secretly trying to remember the exact score of the William Tell Overture rather than become embroiled in the wild verbal melee and, especially, the demonstration of the Twist by Dody and Leonard. There was Dodie reading poetry over Leonard's nsults, Paar sniping at certain irresponsible gentlemen of the press while trying to insert commercials mard.

Leonard.

It was a most entertaining program.

But as far as I am concerned the Jack Paar Show stands up better if it is sampled rarely rather than too often otherwise the bouquet threatens to become

"Man Killer. The pusiness woman may be a trille too clever for her own good.

ABC-TV's Closeup study of the problem of school drop-outs in the U.S. was an absorbing, if distressing half-hour and caused one to worry more than ever about Canada's record that record about Canada's record that reveals that for every 12 Canadian children who entered their first year of school this fall, only one will eventually graduate from high School if the current educational trend continues.

This was only one of the facts revealed in CBC-TVs'

Project '62 series last October. Others were: Of the approximately 425,000 children now in their first year of school only about 35,000 will leave high school with a senior matriculation. Along the way, about 142,000 will not receive a junior matriculation; and of the remaining 146,000 only 60,000 will register for their final year of high school. The U.S. is not alone. Canada, too, is faced with its own serious problem of the "Half Educated."

"The basic philosophy is hat we don't want a bad apple to spoil the barrel. It's quality e're after.

Critics of the program, in which the Canadian militia is providing a body of men with rvival skills, have charged addicts, alcoholics and drifters.

These, if they existed in the initial stages, have been weeded out, the staff officer

"We haven't lost too many. The biggest group are those people called back to work for the Christmas zush, and they can catch up later," Lt. Col. Walsh said: Walsh said:

"All you have to do is judge these people right here (at Bay Street Armoury), compared to their first week in the course."

Asked if it was planned to provide additional courses after the first four were run, the general replied: "I don't know that, but if the program were judged on the success of the present course. there should be more. This is government policy. It depends pon the circumstances. The officer said there is little to correct for future courses and credited the militia with a "great effort" in providing a reservoir of trained men, many of whom favor remaining in

No Trace of Four In Island Tragedy

Fishboat Goes Down

A search which started Wednesday night was still under way at noon today for a 54-foot herring drag-ger with four men aboard, missing and believed sunk in heavy seas near Maude Island, at the mouth of Nanoose Bay, 15 miles north of Nanaimo.

The RCAF search and res-cue centre reported a "May-day" distress signal had been made Wednesday at about 8.30 p.m., that the Vancouver-based Cape Norman was sinking one quarter mile from Maude Island.

Weather at the time of the tragedy was reported as bad, with severe winds and high seas making any kind of search difficult. It has improved to-day, and Georgia Strait was reported as "reasonably calm.

PLANES SEARCH

An RCAF spokesman said air force Albatross and an an air force Albatross and an Otter, both from Sea Island, were searching by air and that the ceiling was 1,000 feet and visibility "fairly good."
"But the wind is getting stronger," he said.
One report reached air-sea rescue headquarters that the vessel sank by the stern. It said a search vessel reported said a search vessel reported that the last message received from Capt. Tom Wilson of White Rock was "The dinghy with three men aboard has capsized."

The RCAF said it could not confirm that there were men in the dinghy.

MELBOURNE — The Victoria State Parliament was in a tizzy today because Fienry Bolte danced with Agnes at a Christmas party.
Bolte is premier of Victoria and Agnes is a waitress

Bolte is premier of Victoria and Agnes is a waitress in the parliamentary dining room.

The 53 year old premier stoutly defended himself, saying: "Nobody tells me when I can dance or how I should behave and I'd dance with any member of the house staff is they would partner me."

Bolte, leader of the Liberal party, said he has had the honor of dancing with the Queen and her niece, Princess Alexandra.

"But I was just as proud to dance with the waitress, Agnes, at the parliamentary members Christmas party."
Critics said Bolte not only danced with the waitress, but left the parliamentary dining room during the party Tuesday night, went upstairs to the staff dining room, donned a waiter's white coat and served drinks.

Labor party legislator W. L. Floyd said he will resign from the house committee in protest.

"It makes me sore," he said, "when rules and regulations are drawn up by the committee to conduct the affairs of this house in a proper manner and persons whom we expect more of see fit to throw mud in the committee's face and break the rules."

TORONTO - Those rapturous audience stampedes at the end of each of Judy Garland's current concerts may not be so spontaneous

the audience itself.

The Telegram enlisted a psychiatrist to figure things out. Both it and The Star discovered a self-starter among Judy's fans.

Focus of the research was the closing rush to the footlights that has become a Garland trademark lately. It has been wild enough at Toronto's new cultural emporium — the O'Keefe Centre — to catch eight-column front page headlines in the evening papers.

The Telegram's psychiatrist — anonymous because of medical ethics — found the mob's rush "as predictable as the frog in Miss Garland's throat." which he noted vibrates on schedule at a particular point in the program.

"From start to finish, the show is a carefully, engin-

TORONTO — A pastureland romance between four heifers and a group of steers got into the courts Wednesday for the second time.

This time the Ontario Court of Appeal quashed a decision by Brant County Judge R. W. Reville which awarded $1,975 damages to Paris farmer James B. Greenfield. Defendants were the second time. field. Defendants were two other farmers, Harold B. Buchanan and Earl Scott.

Mr. Greenfield said his four prize heifers became culprit or culprits, he claimed, were an animal or animals owned by Mr. Scott.

Mr. Scott argued before Judge Reville that his steers could not have impregnated the heifers.

For the benefit of city readers, a heifer is a maiden a. A steer is a bull whose potentialities of parenthood have been removed by surgery, a procedure which results in rapid increase of weight and makes him a prime candidate for the slaughterhouse.

Judge Reville found that two or more of the cattle owned by Mr. Scott had been improperly or ineffectively desexed, with the unfortunate results described.
